

THE BOURBONS ALARMED.

FEARFUL OF LOSING VIRGINIA.

EVERYTHING TO BE SACRIFICED TO GAIN THE LEGISLATURE—THE SENATORSHIP.

(BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.)

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 9.—Already there are signs that the Bourbons will sacrifice Pitzhugh Lee and the remainder of the State ticket, if necessary, in order to secure a majority in the Legislature and defeat the election of a Republican as General Mahone's successor in the United States Senate.

The Bourbon newspapers have raised the alarm, and they call upon Democrats in every county "to make some sacrifices for the supreme end of saving the Commonwealth from the shame and misery of again having its legislative branch in the hands of our enemies."

The panic is not only a consequence of the legislative contest but also a consequence of the fact that the Bourbons have obtained a two-thirds majority in the last Legislature in order to enable them to overcome the Governor's veto and enact an election law so unjust and partisan as to leave it without a parallel in any State in the Union.

Two years ago the Republican voters in the counties and cities and towns were so prejudiced in the "black" counties and cities and towns that they were necessary in order to overcome the Bourbons.

The Bourbons are now so prejudiced in the "black" counties and cities and towns that they are necessary in order to overcome the Bourbons.

DEMANDING MERCY FOR RIEL.

MONTREAL, Aug. 9 (Special).—A meeting of ten thousand people was held here today to consider action to be taken with regard to Riel. All political parties were represented.

Dr. Schuchman presided and much enthusiasm was manifested. T. O. David, a prominent lawyer, spoke first.

He urged the meeting to adopt resolutions asking clemency for Riel. R. Lafontaine, C. C. former Minister of Justice, delivered a powerful address in which he arraigned the Government for its cruel mistreatment of Riel.

He dwelt at great length upon the legal points involved, asserting that the trial of Riel was an innovation and that the Government was incompetent and unqualified to try him.

He called upon the meeting to demand that the Government should be compelled to grant clemency to Riel.

Dr. Schuchman, who was imprisoned in Fort Garry in 1870 by General Wolley, presided over the meeting.

THOUSANDS AT GRANT'S TOMB.

GRAND ARMY MEN VISIT RIVERSIDE.

A CONSTANT STREAM OF VISITORS—SCENES AND INCIDENTS OF THE DAY.

Two sentries in the uniform of the United States Army paced with regular step along the tomb of General Grant at Riverside.

At midnight the Park police withdrew, the lights went out in the Claremont House and when the clouds about the stars the entire plateau on which the tomb stands was wrapped in deep darkness.

Only a single lantern reflected dimly the shadow of the passing sentry. A counterpane was established at night and at half-past the time was called by the sentry to the corporal of the guard.

Every two hours the corporal made his appearance with two sentries to form the relief.

As the sun rose yesterday morning, the bugler who sounded the "taps" after the funeral service, roused the soldiers in the tents with the reveille.

The flag went up at half-past the tomb and a cannon boomed from the man-of-war that lay in the Hudson off Riverside.

Daylight was the signal for visitors to appear. They came in groups of two or three at first, among them the vendors of sandwiches, refreshments and cigars.

One of the vendors of cigars brought with him a hand of small pasteboard boxes labeled "Hand from the tomb of General Grant, five cents."

He had just filled his boxes with sand from the hillside when a detachment of Park policemen arrived and drove the vendors of all articles from the grounds, keeping them at a distance for the rest of the day.

The early visitors were mostly strangers in the city. Grand army men belonging to posts from all parts of the country gathered about the tomb.

Old friends who had not met each other for years encountered each other and the bond of army life made acquaintances of them all, and called out incidents of war experience and anecdotes of the dead commander.

During the forenoon no system was adopted to regulate the crowd in viewing the tomb. The line of the sentry was established about ten feet in front of the tomb and beyond that none was permitted.

The sentry remained immovable and the man taking his place for an ascent, was about to step forward, when the musket was held before his breast.

"You can't cross the line," was the reply, and the man moved sorrowfully away.

One woman was more persistent. She appealed with tears in her eyes to the sentry and was finally directed by him to apply to Captain Fessenden. She could not find him, so sought out Lieutenant Sawyer, the head of the guard.

"I am the European correspondent of several papers," she said. "I am Mrs. Johnson, and I have followed the funeral of Garibaldi, and have followed the bodies of Thiers, Gambetta and Garfield to their last resting places; you will surely permit me to enter the tomb of General Grant for a few moments, Lieutenant."

"It is not in my power, madame," replied the officer. "Captain Fessenden only opens the vault, and he is easily overruled by the governors of the State."

As the day advanced the number of people increased, until the grounds were covered with visitors. It soon became difficult to keep back the crowds that assembled in front of the vault.

It was decided to form a line finally. This was done by the policemen about 1 o'clock and the management of the crowd then became more easy.

The line continued to grow over the length of the day, and the people who were admitted to move leisurely before the vault entrance, giving ample time to look into the tomb.

All ranks of life were represented in the line, but more of the visitors appeared to be residents of New York than in the morning. Young men and women were in the majority.

Shortly before 11 o'clock four carriages drove from the main avenue along the line, and the funeral car had appeared. The line of the sentry was broken, and the four carriages were open.

The four carriages were open. The Park police permitted the carriages to pass their lines, but the large crowd prevented them from getting near the vault. One of the coachesmen then called to Kraus, the bugler, who was passing, and requested him to say to the officer of the guard that the funeral car had arrived.

Colonel Frederick D. Grant and his wife and other members of the family were in the funeral car. They wished to alight at the tomb, but the sentry would not permit them to do so.

The funeral car was driven to the tomb, and the family members were permitted to alight. They were then driven to the tomb, and the family members were permitted to alight.

THE FIRE RECORD.

GOVERNMENT CONTRACTORS BURNED OUT.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9 (Special).—The large paper mills of Balfour & Co., at Tiocha and Bath, were destroyed, together with much valuable machinery, by fire early this morning, entailing a loss of $50,000.

The firm was largely engaged in making bank-note paper for the Government, having secured the contract some time ago. The main building was completely gutted, and the report came that the entire plant was destroyed.

A large number of the employees were employed in the mill, and they were all rescued immediately.

MOVEMENTS OF PROMINENT VISITORS.

MANY OF THEM LEAVING THE CITY FOR THE THEATRE AFTER THE FUNERAL.

Enough prominent men lingered here yesterday after General Grant's funeral to swell large crowds of curious spectators to the hotel lobbies, but the celebrities, for the most part, kept their rooms. Most of the Presidential party have departed.

Messrs. Lamar, Endicott and Manning were still at the Fifth Avenue Hotel last night. Mr. Hayard started in the morning for a quiet nook on Long Island, where he intends to seclude himself for a day or two.

Mr. Manning spent the night at Secretary Whitney's house, where they met Messrs. Thompson, Colver, Hadden, Surry, and other local politicians and Federal officeholders.

Mr. Whitney intends to visit his family at Lenox, Mass., today, accompanied by his brother-in-law, Colonel O. H. Payne, and Mr. Gun, of Cleveland, Ohio.

President Hendricks will go to Philadelphia today to visit friends. General Sheridan started last night for his post in the West.

General Sherman will return to Fremont. General Logan went to Washington yesterday on the same train that bore General Joseph E. Johnston to his home in Virginia.
